

Historic Flood – March 1938

- A 1938 photograph, of City of Huntington Beach, California, shows that a particular property under study was subject to historical flooding.
- Locating historical photographs of floods, or reports of flooding is an element in evaluating whether properties are subject to historical flooding.
- The landmark State of California Supreme Court case Aikens vs. State of California involved historical flooding issues.